Community Colleges of Spokane Foundation

Supporting students is at the heart of everything the Community Colleges of Spokane Foundation does. Since 1973, the Foundation has worked to improve educational access for students, as well as enhancing programs and services at the Community Colleges of Spokane. We invite you to join us in providing a “hand up” to local residents working to improve their lives through education.

CREATING A BRIGHTER LIFE

The Lou and Margaret Thrallkill Endowment provides scholarships for high-achieving business students at SCC and SFC. But it’s only fitting that one of this year’s recipients, Kelsi Walker, possesses the love of learning, passion for giving back and desire to see the world that Margaret Thrallkill herself embodied. A Spokane native, Kelsi is a first-year student at SCC and a long-time soccer player. After the CCS coach convinced her to check out SCC, she realized that by playing here allowed her to continue playing a sport she loved while getting a strong start to her education.

But the work of the Foundation also goes deeper than these individual contributions. By working to build permanent endowments and future generations of benefactors, the Foundation is taking steps to ensure that students and programs will receive necessary financial support long into the future.

Like Margaret, Nancy wants to share the gifts she has been fortunate to have in her life, and it’s clear that she inherited the same drive to help others reach their educational goals that Margaret had. She is helping build brighter futures for her students by inspiring in them the same love of learning that motivated Margaret.

Margaret’s legacy of giving has supported the ongoing growth of the Foundation and will continue to touch the lives of students long into the future.
